DEATH OF VALORES P. COOLIDGE.-The reports in circulation that Coolidge (the murtherer of Mathews) died in prison on Friday morning last, are confirmed. We conversed yesterday with a gentleman who was in Thomaston the day after his death, and who saw his corpse. He confirms, also, the statements made in relation to a plot, which Coolings had proected, for the murder of Thomas Flint (the principal witness for the prosecution against him.) LIVE TO DO GOOD.

five to do good—this world should be But one united family, One holy brotherhood; Where each should for his neighbor feel, Helping along the general weal, And universal good.

But selfish aims too oft intrude, And thoughtless words, or actions rude, Engender empity:
And hence the scenes of foolish strife,
Marring the happiness of life,
Which every any we see.

Tia sad to find the evil seed So thickly sown, and nuxious weed Its baleful presence spread; And witness passion's barsh control Crush the affections of the soul Beneath its iron tread.

Live to do good-an idle wail is uscless—action must prevail,
A living pattern teach;
Invoke example's potent aid,
And that to which you would persuade,
Practice us well as preach.

Live to do good-if festering sores Humanity with tears deplores, Strive all you can to heal; Direct the young, and comfort age, Boddly for right and truth engage, And for the suffering feel.

Live to do good, and kindness show To neighbor, stranger, friend and foe, Nor think the task is hard; Heaven will bestow its righteons mead, And every earth-forgotten deed Shall bring a rich reward.
